Dear Sonja,

At Restek, we are proud to offer top-quality chromatography products to our customers across the globe. Because we do export our products from the United States, however, there are certain laws and government regulations with which we must comply and some of these requirements also apply to you.

For your convenience and future reference, we have posted an important message for you on our website. To learn more about our export controls and understand what your responsibilities are, click here or paste the following URL into your browser:
